Letter From Florida and Cuba,

TAMPA, FLA., Jan. 26, 1899.

Editor Roundabout:

It has been several years since I wrote a letter for publication, and not having written one for so long, it is with some hesitancy I undertake to do so.

I left Frankfort the evening of January 5th for a trip through the South, principally Florida. I arrived at Jacksonville, Fla., the night of the 6th, at 11 o'clock, by way of the Cincinnat Sou hern Railway, the train being 2 hours behind time. I spent three days in Jacksonville looking after the interest of Miles & Son, in which State they have had a nice trade in their flour since my first trin, in the winter of 1882.

the Aransa, one of the Morgan line vessels, running from New Orleans via Key West.

Havana, being only 90 miles, we lay outside harboruntilafter 5 o'clock in the morning, no vessel being allowed to go into the harbor until after this time. In going up the harbor 1 got a chair and sat on the bow of the vessel, so I could see on each side and in every direction. But little passed my notice. The first thing passed was Moro Castle, one of the most noted fortifications in the world. After passing Moro, other forts were passed, almost innumerable, which would take too long to write about. My intention is to only give a sketch of what I saw. The last I will name in the harbor is the wreck of the Maine, a photograph of which I have with me and will be pleased to show my friends when I get home.

By the way, I went to the cemetery of Havana of two hundred and sixty-five whose lives were lost in this disaster, they being buried in two heaps.

You will remember five years ago Lext June I left Frankfort and made a trip through nine countries. I have been in Mexico and Canada. In all I have never seen such squalid wreth-dness, poverty in its most abject form.

The vessel was anchored out some distance from the dock and was inet by Cubans with little sail boats, whichwould earry from six toten persons with their baggage.

by Cubans with fittle sail boats, which would carry from six toten persons with their baggage.

The steamer let down a statr or wafe way outside the vessel for passengers to walk down to the little sail boats. Only one boat could get passengers in at a time. There was perfect confusion, each one of the Cubans trying to get his share of passengers. I could not understand a word they said. We, that is, the party I was with, made a contract at 25 cents each to put us on the dock. If will have to make my description of things short. On the dock is the custom house, through which we all had to pass, baggage all being opened by Cubans to collect something for putting the baggage in the custom house. No difference how much your long war's writing of all I saw and heard.

After, and as soon as we left the door, the beggars, big, little, old and young, were holding and poking their hands at us, mostly women and children of all ages. A great many with leprosy, sores on them from the crown of their heads to the soles of their feet. It is not only here this is seen, but all over the city. Concerning the alliance with England, that some people seem crazy about, we couldn't get it when it would have been servicehole to us, and now we can easily do without it. Red, as is well known, is the English national color, uniforms, stampered, and even the rope line and twine, from the candlewick to the largest ship's hawser, have each got a red stran running through them. (See Joshus 2: 18-21.) One of the best poems, illustrating the good feeling prevailing in all sections of our country, appears in the Christmas number of the Youths' Companion, written by Edmund Vance Cooke:

The Fifty-fourth Virginia you may give salute again."

Captured in battle, and on their way to prison, the Third Ohio had sunk down, hungry and tired, on the bare ground to sleep when

"The Fifty-fourth Virginia had broken up its ranks, And idly sauntered over to inspect the captured 'Yanks.'

They were very much disappointed, for, except the color of uniform, "They all are just like we all," so they cooked bacon and pone to give the Yanks some supper.

"And then these gallant Southerners they served it piping hot, Saying 'Yanks this al it no banquet, but its sho'ly all we got."

The changing fortune of war flooded a Union camp with captive rebs. As soon as he saw them a Yank ran through the camp

Dr. Keller's Address.

The third address to the Economic Department of the Woman's Club was delivered by Dr. H. S. Keller, was delivered by Dr. H. S. Keller, Tuesday, 16th.

The doctor first defined "health" a "the harmonious relation of all the organs of the body dependent upon the harmonious relation of the individual cell." and "disease" as the effects produced by any agent or force, physical or mental, that deranges said harmonious action, he referred to the generally, though not universally, accepted creed, that the germ theory "best accounts for disease, particularly infectious and contagious." Germs or bacteria are, since they absorb nourishment through the exterior surfaces of cell walls, the exterior surfaces of cell walls, Spiendid music will be furnished vegetable organisms, which morphologically may be grouped into three genera "Bacilli, rod shaped" spent by those in attendance.

"Cocci, spherical," "Spirillae, spiral."
Though almost infinitessimal the fertillity of the soil, all fermentation and putrifaction is due to their activity. Through their agency morganic matter is transformed into organic and roganic resolves itself into elements. The pathological or disease producing germs are those which, when introduced under favoring conditions into the system, reproduce themselves and in their growth generate ptomaines or toxins posins akin to seives and in their growth generate ptomaines or toxins posins akin to the vegetable alkaloids. If the con-ditions are not favorable the disease germ is harmless, "In 1892, during an epidemic of

"In 1892, during an epidemic of cholera in Hamburg, a New York paper sent to that city a correspondent who nursed the cholera patients, slept in the room with them and drank water containing the cholera spirilli without contracting the disease. His immunity is to be accounted for by perfect health and total absence of fear. Fear is a predisposing cause of cholera, yellow fever and similar diseases."

Any one doubting this last state-

Any one doubting this last state-ment of the doctor's has only to con-sider the physical effects of fear—the disturbance of the normal functions of disturbance of the normal functions of every organ—unnatural depression or excitation of nerve centers. Yet more important still fear partially or totally paralyzes the will power, which is the greatest safeguard to physical, mental or moral sanity. It is not those who, tremble nor who fold their hands and whine who re-stet atther disease or tempetation.

fold their hands and whine who resist either disease or temptation. "Diathesis" Dr. Koller defined as an inherited tendency to disease. He did not believe that consumption, o other so-called hereditary diseases, were directly transmitted from parent to child, but only a suitable soil or predisposition to the disease. And since this predisposition can be combatted and often overcome, the theory should bring encouragement, with a grave sense of responsibility to the parents of children in families where consumption or other so-called hereditary diseases are common.

where consumption or other so-called hereditary diseases are common.

"To day a child born of a family where rheumatism is a common disease and suffering from recurring sore throat, St. Vitus dance, erythemia or inflammation of the heart, must be treated for the rheumatic diathesis, for these are the symptoms of that which is latent."

Dr. Keller next spoke of acquired susceptibility to disease, "which is the result of disobedience to the laws of hydren. Those who by the next.

the result of disobedience to the laws of hyglene. Those who, by the neglect of water, smulght, pure air and exercise have allowed the pores of the skin to become inactive, the blood poor, the muscles lax, or who have disspated nerve energy in friction or over excitement are the first and easy victims of disease."

In conclusion, passing beyond mere m iterial conditions, the doctor spoke of the mission of pain to warn, incite and restrain and the grater mission of pileasure. Quoting from Prof. Hutchinson, he declared 'joy is the sunshine of the soul, and, like ail Hutchinson, he declared 'joy is the sunshine of the soul, and, like all other sunshine, a most powerful antiseptic, a staunch friend of life and deadly enemy of fungi, miasm and decay." Yet how few, even among children of the most devoted parents, are as happy as they might be made.

parents, are as happy as they might be made.

After the lecture, in conversation with the women, Dr. Keller discussed recent experiments in electricity, especially the fact that while 1,700 voits of electricity are fatal, several hundred thousand have been taken with inopunity. His own opinion was that "the vibrations at that or an approximate voltage was synchronism with the cell vibration, and therefore caused a disturbance to the system." He also read a letter just received from N. Tesler, in which the great electrician wrote:

"I have in my experiments found that the more rapid the vibration of the currents the greater an amount of electrical energy can be passed through the body of a person without injuring the same, and my conclusion has been that the tissues with the cells act as a condenser."

The sad news reached this city on Suuday, that Mr. James R. Watson, on Sunday morning, aged 86 years.

Mr. Watson was born and reared in this city and made it his home for over sixty years, removing to Louisville after his sons had gone there and established themselves in business.

Mr. Wat-on was a printer by trade, having learned the 'art preservative,' when a young man, in the office of the late Col. A. G. Hodges.

Afterwards he was appointed Assistant Auditor of State, and filled that position for some twenty years with fidelity and accuracy. ### The Young Israelites are Loyal Americans and Teachers of Their Parents.

It is a fair question, though, whether the artists of the Ghetto, if allowed to develop spontaneously, would produce any really great works of art. Unfortunately it is one that can nevr be answered. On all sides American life is pressing in on them; in every corner children are coming under the spell of its outward glamour. It is Morris Rosenfeld's badge of fame among his people that he was discovered by a Harvard professor, and has read his poems before the leading literary men of New York. Even the language he uses is It is a fair question, though, wheththe leading literary men of New York. Even the language he uses is affected by the outlying idiom. Mr. W. D. Howells, who speaks very highly of the poems, tells me that many of the words were plain En-glish. A resident of the Ghetto, Abusham Calan has written stories highly of the poems, tells me that many of the words were plain English. A resident of the Ghetto, Abraham Cahan has written stories of Yiddish life in New York for American magazines, and has published two successful books. In describing the influence of American life, he told me of a mother who said: "I don't speak English, but I shall soon learn. There (pointing to her son), that is my teacher." The children mostly go to the public schools, and except in their homes have discarded the Yiddish language. "I like to talk about the old country," a Yiddish mother said to me one evening at the Windsor, "and some day I think I will go back; but my children make fun of me and call me 'Dutchman."" Here the father chirped in: "Yes, they say: 'What hell good old country." This here is United States,'" He professed to me that he preferred Proctor's to the Windsor. This was during the Spanish war, and the Windsor was draped with American flags and banners, some of them wrought in silk. The orchesta began with Sous's "Stars and Stripes." I found that the Yiddish people were proud of the fact that they had sent a larger proper.

Very few men have seen the inside of a Masonic Lodge when it is at work, but the Paris Kentuckian tells of one who did. It says: "Tuesday is the regular meeting night of the A. O. U. W.'s, and W. G. Swearngen, who had only attended two meetings of his lodge since his initiation, concluded to attend on the 27th. At 7 o'clock he was on hand, and a few minutes after the Lodge was called to order. He noticed that the brothers all put on white aprons and he put on onle after the Lodge was called to order. He noticed that the brothers all put on white aprons and he put on one too. He didn't remember ever seeing this done in this lodge before, but as he had not attended for some time concluded that it was something new. The lodge was declared open for business, and when the presiding officer asked Bro. Wallace Mitchell if all present were entitled to remain, he said they were. Business proceeded, the election of officers took place, Bro. Swearengen voted and the meeting finally adjourned. Walking down street Bro. Swearengen met Bro. Wm. Schrote and toid him about attending a meeting of the Warkmen. Bro. S strote said he was mistaken, that there had been no meeting of that Lodge. Bro. Swearengen was willing to back up his words with a $2 bet, which was readily accepted, and when Bro. Schrote told Bro. Swearengen that the Workmen had given up the lodge roon for the night to the Masons on account of its being St. John's Dry, Bro. Swearengen was shocked, and was willing to bet that he was the only a a that ever at tended a Masonic meeting before he had been initiated."

Cantata-Jepthah and His Daughter.

GRAY—At the residence of his uncle, Judge W. H. Sneed, on ye-terday morning at 4 o'clock, Mr. Carleton Saffell Gray, oldest son of Mr. John T. Gray, aged 37 years.

Mr. Gray was a popular and bright young man. He had made his home in Chicago, Ill., and was in the insurance business, when attacked by that insidious disease, consumption. Some ten days since his father brought him to this city, and all that loving care could do to make him comfortable was done.

He was a nephew of Messrs. W. M. & J. M. Saffell and Mrs. W. H. Sneed.

His sister, Miss Fannie S. Gray, is a teacher at the Institute for Feebleminded children.

sition Jeptha makes a vow unto the Lord that he will sacrifice whatever he first meets at the door of his house if he should win the victory over the Ammonites. On his return home, after conquering the Ammonites, his daughter, Iphigenia, falls a victim to a father's rash yow. The cantata strikingly sets forth the Spartan heroism of Jepthah and the fidelity and willing submission of Iphigenia to her father's yow. A couplete history may be found in the book of Judges, else with chapter. Between forty and fifty prominent Frankfort ladies and gentlemen will take part, and elaborate costumes, turnished by Fritz Schoultz & Co., are to be used. Following is the cust:

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly graiffying to the public to know of one concern in the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The covery for Consumption, Coughs and Cold, have given away over femmilion trial bottle over the milition trial bottle over the milition trial bottle over the consumption of consuming it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hourseness and all diseases of the throat, Chest and Langs are surely cured by it. Call on J. W. Gayle, Druggist, and get a trial bottle. Regular size 50c. and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

La Grippe is again epidemic Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Sheperd, Publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe, Plessant to take, quiek to act." Tyler & Hemphill and W. McKee Hardie.

Good News.

LaGrippe Is Contageous.

Atmosphere Impregnated With Germs.

Disease Proved Beyond Question to be Injectious-Is Rapidly Conquering the Country.

Conquering the Country.

LaGrippe is a contagious disease. Its specific germ has been positively identified, and it is transmitted from person to person either by direct contact or by inhaling the germs while they float in the air. It is a dangerous disease, lowering the vitality and wasting the resistive power so that pneumonia, heart disease, nervous prostration and insanity find easy victims. No specific is kn wn that will kill the Grip germ, but it may be driver out and its effects overcome by the prompt use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

"La Grippe left my nervous system so racked and shattered that I could not sleep and for two months was under the influence of narcotics. Physicians and friends gave me up to die; but in two days after I commence and taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine I began to improve and in a month's time I was entirely cured. It is the greatest health restorer on earth."

D. W. Hilton, Louisville, Ky. All druggists are authorized to sell Dr. Miles' Nervine on a guarantee that first bottle benefits or movey refunded. Be sure and get Dr. Miles' Nervine. Booklet on heart and nerves sent free. Address Dr. Miles' Medical Ço., Elkhart, Ind.
